LIQUOR AGENT.

To the Selectmen of the town of Kingston, N. H.

I, Andrew J. Cilley, Town Agent for the purchase and sale of spirituous liquors, submit the following report of all my purchases and the costs thereof, of all my sales and the proceeds thereof, together with the kind and cost of liquor and casks now remaining on hand, pursuant to General Laws, Chapter 109, Sect. 11. during the time I have been acting as Town Agent, from May 1, 1884 to March 1, 1886 :

Amount of liquor purchased and paid for by me,	$ 461 25
“ “ “ “ town.	115 00
Total amount of liquor sold at cost price,	$342 68
Fifty per cent. profit on liquor sold,	171 34
	<hr/>
Total amount of receipts,	$514 02
Total amount expended by agent,	461 25
Profit to town, March 1, 1886,	$52 77

It will appear by reference to accompanying papers that the shrinkage and leakage amounts to $140.76 in value. This may seem large, but the deficiency cannot be attributed to any other cause, and when it is considered that this liquor was being frequently drawn for a period of nearly two years, and that wooden faucets were employed on the casks containing these liquors, the shrinkage can be easier imagined.

I annex hereto three papers, marked A, B and C, to which reference is made, and which is made a part of this, my report. Kingston, N. H., March 1, 1886.

A. J. CILLEY, Agent.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

Superintending School Committee

OF THE

TOWN OF KINGSTON.

---

A serious defect in our school system in the past has been the frequent change of teachers incident to the annual election of new Prudential Committees. The most skillful instructor must devote his patient attention for a considerable length of time to a study of the temperaments and abilities of different pupils, in order to grasp individual peculiarities, so that he may select and apply methods adapted to diverse natures. Almost as soon as teachers have acquired a requisite knowledge of the mental status of the children entrusted to their care, they have frequently been supplanted by others, just as competent perhaps, but who must of necessity consume valuable time in learning how to successfully approach the young minds. It was with much satisfaction, therefore, that your committee learned, upon assuming his duties last spring, that in every district save one the teachers of the preceding year had been re-engaged, thus insuring practical work from the outset.

Speaking in general terms of all the schools, you have reason for congratulation as to the efficiency of your teachers and the solid character of the work done. The pupils in all parts of the town have been commendably punctual and regular in their attendance; a fraction more regular than last year, as is shown by the following average, in which 100 is taken as a basis:

	No. 1.	No. 2.	No. 3.	No. 5.	No. 6.	All.
1885	.87	.919	.886	.978	.90	.9106
1886	.902	.878	.906	.963	.918	.9134

Moreover parents and friends have manifested an active interest in the progress of the children, as is evinced by the large number of visits—about two hundred and fifty—which has been made by them during the year. This practice of visiting the school-room can not be too strongly indorsed: it assures the teacher of the moral support of the community, and stimulates the pupils to better effort.

District No. 1 began the spring session in the dilapidated brick box with its uninviting interior of which mention has been made in most of the reports for the past ten years. Why the excellent citizens who dwell in this neighborhood should allow their school property to get into its present disreputable condition, is past all finding out. Miss Emma L. Nelson, a teacher of experience, taught both terms here, and gave very general satisfaction. The increased punctuality over last year, as shown by the honor roll, speaks well for her ability and popularity.

District No. 2 again secured the services of Miss Etta E. Hatch, who did such excellent work here last year. All comment upon her school must be in the stereotyped form, for both the methods employed and the results obtained are of the best. When obliged to leave at the end of the second term, Miss Hatch took with her the good wishes and confidence of parents and pupils.

The winter term was taught by Miss Carrie B. Huse, a resident of the district, a young lady of decided ability with an aptitude for imparting instruction.

Miss Flora A. Gordon again assumed control of the school in District No. 3, and retained the position through the year. She managed her charge with ease and was thoroughly appreciated by her pupils. The large attendance at the final examination, together with the sorrow of her scholars at parting, evinced the esteem in which she was held more plainly than any expression here can do.

District No. 4. The tax-payers of Kingston, in a more or less philanthropic spirit, continue to assist Newton in the education of its sons and daughters. It seems probable that their benevolence will not be further taxed now that the new law is in operation.

District No. 5 is well to the front as usual. In point of numbers this school is too large for an ordinary teacher to manage, but Miss Susan F. Goodwin, who has taught here three years, has been equal to the task. With Miss Goodwin as teacher, this is the banner district for punctuality. Twenty-nine scholars—one-half of the entire school—have been neither absent nor tardy during the year. The school property here is in excellent condition, and the citizens may well be proud of their school.

In District No. 6 the spring term was taught by Miss Flora M. Tuck, much to the gratification of parents and children. A hiatus of a couple of weeks for repairs after the school had been in session for a fortnight disturbed the continuity of the work, and ought to have been avoided.

Miss Tuck being unable to return in the fall by reason of ill health, Miss M. Alice Wilder was engaged. She began well, but your committee is unable to give other than hearsay evidence as to her ultimate success or failure, owing to the fact that her final examination closed an hour and a half earlier than the usual time for dismissing and when your committee arrived upon the ground the forces which had been engaged were in full retreat.

As the interests of the schools appeared to demand it, the Fish—Robinson Arithmetic has been superseded during the past year by the Bradbury—Eaton Series. It is believed that this change must prove beneficial, as the new books are from every point of view better adapted to the comprehension and needs of children in the common schools. The various subjects follow each other in logical sequence; the problems are practical, conforming to modern prices; and the methods are those employed by business men. Care has been taken to make the introduction under the statute, notice of introduction having been read in the schools and record of the fact having been made by the town clerk; the book cannot, therefore, be removed for five years from date of introduction.

As the new school law went into effect upon the first day of the present month it may be well, in closing this report, to refer briefly to its provisions. The motive of the statute is, of course, to render our schools more effective, and from a theoretical standpoint at least, the new law seems to be excellently adapted to accomplish its purpose. It is similar in plan and scope to the Massachusetts statute, under the provisions of which the common schools of that state have attained an enviable distinction. Our law provides for the election of a school board consisting of three persons chosen, (after the first year) for a term of three years, who shall perform all duties heretofore performed by the superintending committees and the several prudential committees. The district system is abolished, and one district made of an entire town, the town acquiring title to the school property of the various districts by purchase at its appraised valuation, the purchase money being raised by tax. The school board is to provide schools at such places and times as in their judgment will best subserve the interests of education and give all the scholars of the town as nearly equal advantages as may be practicable.

This law will continue in force for five years, at the expiration of which time any town may re-establish the district system by a majority vote of all the voters of the town.

A few of the many benefits which may be confidently expected upon a fair trial of the law are that it will give, by making the school board a permanent organization, an opportunity for establishing a consistent policy in regard to school affairs; that it will do away with local quarrels into which districts are prone to fall; that it will give us better teachers by putting the examining and appointing power in the same hands; and that it will equalize the advantages throughout the town.

Appended will be found an abstract of the registers and the roll of honor.

CHARLES BURR TOWLE.

Kingston, N. H., March 1st, 1886.
